

"Does anybody know me about the PO? I don't think so!"TM

Ask Bob

Dear Bob,
Why won't this stinking thing scan?
Sincerely,
B. Fuddled

Dear B~
I feel your pain. It's pouring down rain and your bladder is bursting and as soon as you complete this scan you can take care of business. But the damn thing won't scan, and for the life of you, you can't figure out why? Am I right? No? It's a nice day and you just finished your break and you just want to save the company a few seconds by not having to manually input the numbers? Oh. OK. Well, usually, the problem lies in the mysterious little white stripes, (not the rock band), where the ink on the bar code has been scratched off. Take a close look. See where the line goes through much of the entire label? This is where Mr. Sharpie does his magic. Simply draw over the offending scratch, and viola! you can move on! By the way, we're talking fine tip Sharpies here. You're very welcome.

Love Ya, Bob

Mysterious scratches through bars need to be filled in with Sharpie

Fine tip Sharpie

By: 82's PUSHING THE ENVELOPE by Karl Waite and Teri Knott ©2005 LOVETHEPOSTOFFICE.COM